THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

MISS COOKE AND MR. F. K. BARBOUR MARRIED.

Beautiful Ceremony at St. Patrick's Church—Travel Plans—Personal Notes.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, who has been in New York for several days, accompanied a party to Coney Island Saturday night, and is said to have thoroughly enjoyed the attractions there. She is expected back today or tomorrow, and starts for Cincinnati visit the last of the week, every hour of which has already been pre-empted by engagements of a most attractive kind.

Gen. and Mrs. Chaffee will leave tonight for a three weeks' visit to West Point and Highland Falls. Admiral and Mrs. Coghlan will accompany them.

The bridal party to attend Miss Wilson and Mr. Ernest Howe at their marriage June 7, at the Epiphany, will be a small one. Miss Mary Carlisle will be the maid of honor and Mr. Walter Howe of New York will be best man. Messrs. Livingston Kean and Julian Ripley of New York and Messrs. Carlisle and Wilson of this city will be ushers. A reception for the relatives and personal friends will follow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wilson. Mrs. Knobel, sister of the bride, whose husband is in the Swedish diplomatic service, and who was formerly stationed here previous to and after his marriage, is coming from Europe to be present at the ceremony.

Today at noon, at St. Patrick's Church, Rev. D. J. Stafford, D.D., performed the marriage ceremony for Miss Helen Cooke and Mr. Frederick K. Barbour. The bride, who was one of the prettiest of the debutantes two years ago, and whose charms have increased in the interval, is the daughter of Mrs. Pitt Cooke, a granddaughter of the late Admiral Nicholson, and on the paternal side a granddaughter of the late Jay Cooke. Mr. Barbour's family is distinguished among the earliest settlers of this part of the country, their names being constantly identified with and standing for both historical and national importance. One ancestor was Capt. Richard Townsend, who held office in York county, Va., in 1633, and was a member of the Virginia council by nomination. His son, John, was a member of the Baldwin Dade of King George county, Va. His relatives for several generations back have been prominent in the annals of St. Patrick's parish, the church now appearing in that church in memorials of different kinds. Hence its selection for the ceremony.

The witnesses of the marriage included all the close relatives of the young couple and their personal associates, to whom telephone calls were made yesterday, the date having been only settled Saturday, and the particular hour yesterday. The short notice did not detract from the attendance, and a smiling gathering of well-known young people in society, half filling the pews of the middle aisle, was present to participate in the happiness of the two popular members. The high altar was brilliantly illuminated and decorated with white flowers, completing the beautiful effect always attained at St. Patrick's.

The wedding march filled the church with melody as the couple entered and departed. A long procession of altar boys attended by Rev. D. J. Stafford and the other clergymen in the sanctuary. The bride was escorted to the sanctuary railing by her uncle, Commander Reginald Nicholson, U. S. N., and the bridegroom by his father, Mr. Barbour, being one of the party cut from the party of the arrangement, was the only usher at the wedding.

As the family of the bride is in deep mourning for the recent death of Rear Admiral Nicholson, no reception followed. Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Barbour, driving from the church to the railway station on the New York and Annapolis line, were met by the church door by the couple with rice and old slippers, and the relatives went to the station with them to say good-bye. Commander and Mrs. Nicholson went to New York by the same train. Mr. and Mrs. Barbour will live in New York, where they have recently established themselves with a business house. They will go to housekeeping in the fall. Mr. and Mrs. James F. Barbour and their daughters, Mrs. Broome and Miss Margaret Barbour, gave the bride a complete silver service, both table and toilet accessories of the most elegant character being included, and a number of other gifts. These, with the constant additions received yesterday and today from the friends of the young couple, make the wedding a marriage became more widely known, has amassed a valuable collection of parting souvenirs which will serve as ornaments to their future home in New York.

Many Washington friends have received invitations for the marriage of Miss Amy Phipps to Capt. Frederic Edward, Guest third son of Lord Winton. The ceremony will be in London, June 28, at St. George's Church, Hanover Square, and will be followed by a reception at Brook House, Park Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Snow have gone to their summer cottage at South Orlington, Me., until October. Mrs. Snow's mother, Mrs. L. K. Snow, is accompanied there, also Mrs. Sarah M. Welch, Mr. Snow's sister.

Mrs. Hatfield, wife of Col. C. A. P. Hatfield, 13th Cavalry, is a guest of Gen. and Mrs. Craigie at their apartments, the Rochambeau.

Mrs. M. E. Myers of 27 L street north-west has left for an extended trip to Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

The marriage engagement was announced last week in Melrose Highlands, Mass., of Paul Hanson, only child of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanson of this city, and Miss Allison M. Scott of Melrose Highlands, Mass.

Mrs. G. Lewis was hostess at a small reception Saturday evening in honor of Miss Nellie Hendrick of Savannah, Ga. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Smoot, Mr. and Mrs. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Newton, Birch, Dodge, Ryan and Watson, and Messrs. Martin Bell, Evans, Birch, Watson, Meyers, Howe, Wilson and George C. Saunders.

Mrs. T. D. Whyte of Philadelphia spent a few days here last week.

Mrs. W. H. Hatch of Carthage, Mo., is the guest of Mrs. Albert G. Brackett, having come to attend the wedding of her granddaughter, Miss Halla Vernon, which takes place at Mrs. Brackett's home Thursday, June 1. The Misses Vernon and Mr. G. Lorenz are also Mrs. Brackett's guests.

An engagement of special interest here, where the family of the bridegroom is well known, is that of Miss Alice Bowdoin Rush and Mr. Julian S. Carter, both of Baltimore. The latter is the youngest of the six sons of Mr. Bernard Carter of Baltimore. One brother is Mr. John Ridgely Carter, the first secretary and at present charge d'affaires of the American embassy in London, and another is Rev. George Calvert Carter, rector of St. Andrew's Church, this city.

Col. and Mrs. Brownwell are leaving here Wednesday next for Mackinac Island, Michigan, where the latter, with her two young children, will spend most of the summer.

Commander and Mrs. Winslow and family will summer, as usual, at Newport, where they have taken a cottage.

The Haytian minister and Mme. Seac are looking forward to the early return of their sons from Paris, where both have been at school for several years, and also a visit from their niece, Miss Louise Bourke, who is coming from Jamaica, and who is pleasantly remembered as a former member of their household a few years ago. Their sons and nieces will accompany the minister and his wife to Deer Park, where they have taken a cottage for the summer and where they hope to be established later in June.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Conway Peters and Capt. Smedley Darlington Butler, U. S. M. C., will take place Thursday at Bay Head, N. J. The latter is the son of the late Admiral and Mrs. Butler of Pennsylvania and is well known in this city, where he has been several times detailed. Mr. Samuel Butler will be best man, and officers of the Marine Corps will attend as guests. The Misses Edith M. Peters and Hope C. Peters will attend their sister as maids of honor. Capt. Butler will take his bride to the Philippines, where he will be stationed.

ANALOSTAN GUN CLUB.

Sixth Annual Tournament to Commence Tomorrow.

The sixth annual tournament of the Analostan Gun Club, embracing many high-class interstate events, will commence tomorrow morning on the club grounds on Tenleytown road at 9:30 o'clock. The tournament will last two days, and the club will present a notable array of experts holding world's records. The shooting will be over two sets of expert target traps, and gold prizes will be awarded for first high amateur average, second high amateur average and high professional average.

The first day's program will include ten target events, with $10 awarded in each event. The second day's sport will also consist of ten target events, with $10 awarded.

Events will be shot on the sliding hand-cup system, from sixteen to twenty yards, and will be over two Leggett traps, the management of which has been placed in the hands of the club sportsmen all over the country, and is far more desirable than the old method. In the division of the four money prizes of $40, $30, $20 and $10 per cent will prevail.

Among those who will take part in the different events are W. H. Heer of Concordia, Kan., who recently won a world record in the tournament at Des Moines, Iowa, winning 307 straight in the inanimate target shoot; Frank E. Butler, an expert shooter from New York, who became famous in his travels with the Buffalo Bill wild west show; J. A. R. Elliott, who holds many records for live bird shots. Mr. Elliott is considered a master by himself as a pigeon shot. He has recently taken up inanimate target shooting and stands high in the sport. Mr. Elliott is Mr. E. M. Storr, an expert shot of Baltimore; Leaf Apgar, who has to his credit first prizes in several eastern state tournaments. Among the local sportsmen who will take part are Mr. J. E. Avery, Miles Taylor, C. S. Wilson, C. B. Wise, George Wise, John Coleman and James M. Greene. From the ranks of the visiting amateurs, who have distinguished themselves at trap shooting will be George Lyons, Durham, N. C.; W. A. Hammond, Richmond, Va.; Anderson, Richmond, Va.; Dennis Lynch-burg, Va.; Winfrey, Mr. Guntler, Norfolk, Va.; A. M. McCormick and J. E. Avery of New York city.

The officers of the club are: President, Burridge Wilson; vice president, Charles S. Wilson; secretary, Miles Taylor; treasurer, John Coleman; J. A. R. Elliott, J. F. P. Meigs, Bethlehem; Perry D. Knapp, Toledo; T. S. Reinhardt, Habana; W. H. McPetridge, Chicago; W. C. Eustis, New York.

Arlington—F. J. Kent, Chicago; William Mitchell, New York; Geo. W. Hayes, New York; F. C. Fuller, Philadelphia; Geo. H. Broome, Philadelphia; J. A. Stevens, Chicago; W. H. Sears, New York; Capt. W. H. Emory, United States navy.

THE ONE PERFECT TEACHER.

Topic of Dr. Fowler's Discourse to Washington College Class.

The fair daughters of Washington College, together with a large assemblage of their friends, filled the college chapel at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to hear the baccalaureate sermon, which was delivered by Rev. Frederick C. Fowler, pastor of Vermont Avenue Christian Church. A feature of the service was the music rendered by the college choir.

Rev. Mr. Fowler's subject was "The One Perfect Teacher." He analyzed Christ's life and surroundings, and describing the humble position which Christ occupied, pointed out how inestimably great was His glory, though He was lowly in origin. The speaker prefaced his discourse by speaking of the Christ's mastery, and in speaking of the character of the Saviour declared that no one had ever denied that He was a perfect man. He quoted in proof of his declaration the expressed opinions of the character of Christ which were made by such eminent statesmen and philosophers as Pilate, Rousseau and Napoleon.

He stated that the most powerful agencies for molding human life and thought are those based upon Christian literature. He quoted the epoch making literary works, beginning with "Pilgrim's Progress." He outlined the marvelous changes wrought in humanity through the teachings of Christ and in closing spoke of the mastery of Jesus as an individual.

ARRIVED AT FORT MYER.

Regimental Headquarters and Second Squadron, 13th Cavalry.

Regimental headquarters and the 21st squadron of the 13th Cavalry, 29 officers and 203 men, have arrived at Fort Myer. They reached their new post last evening at 6 o'clock. The 21st squadron includes Troops E, F, G and H. The regiment is commanded by Col. Charles A. P. Hatfield, a native of Alabama and a graduate of West Point of the class of 1872.

Major Thaddeus W. Jones will command the 21st squadron.

The regimental staff includes Capt. Thos. M. Corcoran, adjutant; Capt. Walter M. Whitman, quartermaster; and Capt. Edward B. Cassatt, commissary.

Of the troop commanders of the 13th who are stationed here Washington people know two very well. These are Capt. Guy H. Preston and Capt. Walter C. Short. Capt. Preston commands Troop E. The junior officers of the 13th Cavalry are: First Lieut. William H. Winters and Second Lieut. John T. Donnelly, Troop E, and First Lieut. Louis R. Fall and Second Lieut. Harry S. Berry, Troop F.

Capt. Short is remembered as one of the men who first started exhibitions of horsemanship in the riding hall at Fort Myer, having been stationed here as a second lieutenant in the 6th Cavalry for two days and nights during the war with Spain.

Troop G is commanded by Capt. Benjamin R. Hyer. His junior officers are First Lieut. Alexander H. Davidson and Second Lieut. Thomas E. Cathro.

Capt. Erwin L. Phillips commands Troop H. First Lieut. Wilson G. Heaton and Second Lieut. Henry H. Berry are assigned as junior officers with Troop H.

The 13th Cavalry relieves the 7th Cavalry at Fort Myer, the 1st squadron of that regiment, which was stationed here, having already departed for the Philippines. The horses that were used by the 7th Cavalry will be turned over to the 13th, which comes directly from the Philippines, where it has been continuously serving during the past two years. The 1st and 2d squadrons and regimental headquarters arrived at San Francisco from Manila about ten days ago. The 3d squadron has sailed from Manila and is on its way to the
